WHAT TO DO FOR A COLD

IF YOU take care of your cold in time—and that does not mean some time, but RIGHT NOW, it will not be anything to worry about. But allow it plenty of time to develop and wander down to your lungs and then you'll begin to worry.

IF YOU are suffering with a cold prepare a tub full of hot water. Make it as hot as you can stand. Then get into it and stay there for 20 or 30 minutes.

WHEN you emerge from the tub, rub yourself thoroughly and briskly with a rough towel and get into bed at once. Drink several glasses of hot lemonade. See that there are plenty of quilts and blankets over you.

You will sweat. That is what you want.

YOUR sweating should cease in about an hour. Then arise, dry yourself again and return to bed with fresh, dry sheets. Remain there until you feel completely restored. If, after a night of this treatment you continue to feel ill-disposed, call your physician.

A COLD can easily prepare the way for pneumonia, or chronic bronchitis, or even tuberculosis. Medical opinion now agrees that tuberculosis comes as a result of lowered resistance, generally following colds and other, what seem minor, ills. In its weakened state, the body hangs out the welcome sign for the tuberculosis germ.
